

Dr Tomas Hamilton

Called: 2011

Qualified to accept Public Access instructions

Licensed to Conduct Litigation

Tomas ('Tom') Hamilton is a British barrister specialising in international law, extradition and crime with substantial experience of proceedings before international tribunals and human rights investigations. His practice includes international law, extradition, crime, sanctions and export control, business and human rights, and professional discipline.

Called to the Bar of England and Wales in 2011, Tom worked for over 13 years in UN mechanisms and international tribunals, developing expertise in drafting compelling legal arguments and managing complex, evidence-heavy cases. His skillset is invaluable for clients facing intricate cross-border challenges.

Recognised as an expert on the arms trade, Tom's book 'The Arms Trade and International Criminal Law' was published by Oxford University Press in 2025. He has a regional specialism in Southeast Asia from his work on Cambodia and Myanmar.

International Criminal Law

Tom regularly advises on procedural and substantive aspects of international criminal law.

Prior to practising at the Bar, Tom worked at the International Criminal Court (ICC) in The Hague from 2013 to 2016. As a legal advisor to the Court's judiciary, he worked on decisions in the Situations in the Ivory Coast, Libya, Darfur (Sudan), and Central African Republic.

From 2016 to 2021, Tom worked for the UN Assistance to the Khmer Rouge Trials (UNAKRT) in the Case 004 investigations before the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia (ECCC). Tom led the defence team for Counsel to Mr Yim Tith, who faced charges of genocide, war crimes, and crimes against humanity.

In his academic career, Tom has published in leading journals and taught international criminal law at the University of Amsterdam from 2021 to 2024, holding a tenured position as Assistant Professor of International Criminal Law. His policy-oriented research continues to focus on aiding and abetting, the emerging crime of ecocide, and arms export regulation.

International Human Rights

Tom's international practice focuses on serious rights violations, corporate accountability, and environmental rights. He provides advice to states, NGOs and individuals in relation to cases before domestic and international courts, as well as those involving UN Human Rights Council Special Procedures.

Prior to coming to the Bar, Tom served as a Human Rights Officer within the UN Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR). In this capacity, he worked on the investigations of the Independent International Fact-Finding Mission on Venezuela (FFMV) and the presentation of its findings to the Human Rights Council in 2023.

Tom actively engages in pro bono work and has provided legal advisory services to organisations such as Amnesty International, Global Witness, and the International Committee of the Red Cross.

Crime & Extradition

In extradition proceedings, Tom is regularly instructed in High Court appellate matters and in Westminster Magistrates' Court where he has advised Requested Persons on matters ranging from prison assurances to extraneous considerations based on persecution. He recently represented a high-profile political dissident in complex Part 2 proceedings.

As part of his growing criminal practice, Tom appears in the Crown Court and the Magistrates' Court acting for both the defence and the Crown Prosecution Service (CPS). Adept at working with vulnerable Defendants, he seeks to prepare thoroughly and give careful consideration to every case. Prior to the Bar, he spent a year at Bark & Co Solicitors working on business crime and serious prison offences.

Professional Discipline

Tom accepts instructions from individuals facing the most serious allegations of regulatory breach in their profession. He appears regularly in substantive and interim matters before the Nursing and Midwifery Council (NMC), the Health and Care Professions Council (HCPC), Social Work England (SWE), the Institute and Faculty of Actuaries (IFoA), the Teaching Regulation Agency (TRA), and before UK university and college disciplinary boards. Due to his academic background in university professorial roles that involved student disciplinary functions, he has a particular expertise in educational disciplinary matters.

Instructed on behalf of the regulator in fitness to practice and professional disciplinary cases, he works meticulously and diligently to ensure the regulator is afforded the highest standards of representation. He has acted in complex substantive hearings of several weeks in length involving the highest sanction of strike off and removal from the professional register, as well as cases where complex health matters arise.
